PAPER-I

GENERAL ENGLISH

- 1. Read the following text and answer the following questions: - 2 x 11 =22*

It took just a matter of seven days for Ratan Dey, a boy of eight summers, to undergo a sweeping profile transformation. From a child in need of care and protection he turned into a child-in-conflict with law. Much to his agony and much against his opposition he was taken out of the Children's Home and deposited in the Observation Home. So how did an ordeal of such a monstrous magnitude befall a boy of such a tender age? Attempting to answer this question is this story of a child who found himself oscillating between despair and hope, a story that wishes to breathe on it's own, a story that wraps in its folds an apology to Ratan and the likes of him.

It was January. On a warm Sunday afternoon, just a week before that drastic profile change, Ratan was found by the local cops helplessly wandering about in a black T-shirt, blue pants and a pair of flip-flops at Tarapur railway station of Silchar, the headquarters of Cachar district in the State of Assam. Based on the vague and scanty background information that could be elicited from the lost and lonely child the rescuing police personnel placed him in the category of children in need of care and protection. He was then taken and produced before the Magistrate at the latter's official residence for dealing with him in the manner appropriate to the circumstances.

The examining lady Magistrate scrutinized the documents and went on to examine Ratan's face which resembled a wilted flower. A sense of profound grief had crept upon it making it look excessively pale and lusterless. He wept copiously. Hot tears trickled down his haggard face as tell-tale signs of the pangs of separation from his loved ones and the distress of finding himself in an unfamiliar terrain. It seemed as though all the happiness that he had ever known had deserted him. The Magistrate made him sit on the living room sofa, caressed him, tried to soothe him with warmth and affection. She entreated him to reveal his whereabouts but all that he did was the repetitive shrieking of "Maa jabo!" (I shall go to my mother!) in expression of an intense longing to be with his mother. Hoping that a chocolate bar might induce him to open up, she gave him one and re-initiated her prodding. "What's your name child?" she began by gently nudging him to speak. "Ratan Dey", he murmured a reply with down cast eyes nibbling the chocolate. A bit encouraged by the answer she continued with a sense of faint optimism, "Such a good boy your are Ratan! Will you now tell me where your home is?" In response the grief-stricken child lapsed into silence and sobbed. She persevered and posed her next question, "What's your father's name?" Ratan returned the query with continued silence refusing to look up at her face and looking down at his toes. A silent tear splashed on his hands. "You want to go back to your mother no? We will call her here. Would you be a good boy and please tell me her name?" This question too was answered only with persisted muteness and misty eyes. "Who all are there in your family?" The Magistrate asked her final question taking care that the already distraught child did not feel burdened with the pestering. In between sobs Ratan disclosed that back home he had an elder sister whom he called "Didi". Probably he shared a close bond with his "Didi" as it was she who featured in the landscape of his little mind thick with sadness. But when asked to give his sister's name, he mumbled a few words incoherently and indistinctly which was hardly of any help to trace out his roots. The Magistrate refrained from proceeding any further and thus ended an unsuccessful one-hour long probing. The sweetness of the chocolate, of the loving words, the caress and the affection- nothing in the world could remedy the situation. Ratan's background remained as obscure as the darkness of night and away he was sent to the Children's Home for safe keeping.

A week later, well ahead of the due date and much to the astonishment of the Magistrate Ratan was once again produced before her. This time he came not as a child in need of care and protection but as an offender. As transpired from the police papers Ratan had disclosed during his stay at the Children's Home that his home was at a place called Radha Nagar which as per police information, was supposedly a part of Bangladesh and hence he was prima facie a foreigner having illegally entered the country without valid papers. He was booked under Section 14 of the Foreigner's Act and relegated to the category of children-in-conflict with law. Ratan's tender age and the consequent mental faculties did not permit him to comprehend the repercussions of his altered status. He neither possessed the awareness of what his nationality was nor did it perhaps matter to him whether he was considered an Indian or a foreigner or an alien creature. Painfully oblivious he was of the possible life altering changes that were ready to silently creep up on him. He knew not what had to become of him. All that he knew, felt and understood was that he was a miserable child craving to be reunited with his family. However, the news of his fresh profiling as a foreigner reached him in the form of his imminent displacement from the Children's Home. He now had to be shifted to the Observation Home which is a place designed to suit the needs and meet the best interests of children-in-conflict with law.

Service, Grade I in Mizoram, 2024

Date: 22.11.2024 (Friday)

Time: 1 P.M. to 4 P.M.

Total Marks: 100

Duration: 3 Hours

PAPER- II

(Question No. 3, 8, 21, 52, 59, 72, 76, 79 and 80 are 2 marks each. All other questions are 1 mark each.)

Choose the correct option:

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908

1. An ex-parte decree passed by Court 'A' was transferred to Court 'B' for execution and execution proceedings are pending in Court 'B'. Court 'A' sets aside the ex parte decree and on re-hearing, a fresh decree was passed on the same terms.

(a) Since the new decree was passed on the same terms, as the decree which is set aside, the execution proceedings will continue.

(b) Court 'B' can continue to execute the exparte decree since the order of transfer has not been re- called.

(c) The Decree Holder can seek amendment to the execution proceedings.

(d) The execution proceedings in Court 'B' come to an end and a fresh execution petition would have to be filed for the new decree.

2. In a suit to obtain an urgent or immediate relief against Government or public officer for act done in his official capacity, if the court is satisfied after hearing the parties that no urgent or immediate relief need to be granted in suit, the court shall

(a) Impose penalty upon plaintiff

(b) reject the plaint

(c) pass a decree in favour of that government or public officer

(d) return the plaint for presentation after complying with requirements

3. Point out the wrong statement:

(a) Where the defendant appears and the plaintiff does not appear, when the suit is called for hearing, the court shall dismiss the suit and the plaintiff shall be barred from filing a fresh suit on the same cause of action.

(b) No appeal may lie from an original decree passed ex parte.

(c) The plaintiff may apply to the court which passed an ex parte decree against him, for an order to set it aside.

(d) No court shall set aside a decree passed ex parte merely on the ground that there has been an irregularity in the service of summon upon the defendant.

4. A' is dispossessed in a suit for possession filed by 'B'. In appeal, the decree of possession is set aside. The defendant may claim:

(a) restitution of possession and damages by filing a separate suit.

(b) restitution of possession by moving an application before the court which passed the decree in first instance.

(c) restitution of possession by moving an application before the appellate court which set aside the decree.

(d) Interest, damages, cost and mesne profits by moving an application before the appellate court which set aside the decree.

5. A civil suit for infringement of trademark with applications under Order XXXIX of CPC and Order XXVI Rule 9 CPC was filed by the plaintiff, during the subsistence of a Caveat filed by the defendant under Section 148A of CPC. The Court, however, without issuing notice to the defendant granted ex-parte ad-interim orders in favour of the plaintiff. Whether the Court was correct in doing so?

(a) Yes, the Court was correct since the reliefs sought are urgent and any prior intimation to the defendant would have led to mischief.

(b) No, since purpose of lodging a caveat is to grant an opportunity to defendant to show cause why any order(s) adverse to the defendant should not be passed.

(c) No, as the Court has no power to grant an interim order without hearing the defendant.

(d) Yes, as the Court has discretion to grant interim order ex-parte without hearing the defendant, where delay would defeat the interests of the plaintiff.

6. Which of the following tests are to be applied in cases where the plea of bar of suit under Order II Rule 2 is raised?

- (a) Where the cause of action in the previous suit and that in the subsequent suit are identical
- (b) Whether the relief claimed in the subsequent suit could have been given in the previous suit on the basis of the pleadings filed in that suit
- (c) Whether the plaintiff omitted to sue for a particular relief on the cause of action which had been disclosed in the previous suit
- (d) All of the above

7. Where the person summoned cannot, by the exercise of due diligence, be found, the summons may be served-

- (a) By affixing the same on the notice board of the Municipal Council of Gram Panchayat as the case may be
- (b) By leaving one of the duplicates of the same for him with some adult male member of his family residing with him, and the person with whom the summons is so left shall, if so required by the summoning officer, sign a receipt therefore on the back of the other duplicate
- (c) By affixing the same on the conspicuous place of his house
- (d) By serving the same on the servant of the person summoned and obtain from him the acknowledgement thereof on the back of the duplicate

8. Mark the incorrect statement:

- (a) The court must be competent to try the suit at the time of filing of the suit. Subsequent change in value does not affect the jurisdiction.
- (b) It is the plaintiff's valuation in the plaint that determines the jurisdiction of the court and not the amount for which ultimately the decree may be passed by the court.
- (c) If the pecuniary jurisdiction of the court is Rs. 10,000 and the plaintiff files a suit for accounts and finally the court finds on taking the account that Rs. 15,000 are due, the court is not deprived of its jurisdiction to pass a decree for that amount.

(d) If the plaintiff undervalues or overvalues the claim for the purpose of choosing the forum, it is not the duty of the court to return it to be filed in the proper court.

9. A Private Limited Company filed a suit for recovery of rupees fifty thousand, but court fees paid on the plaint is deficient. The court shall:-

(a) require the District Collector to pay the court fee.

On Oath,

On 25/04/2013, I was working as the In-Charge at Borgang Outpost. That day, Sukurmoni Nayak lodged an Ejahar, on the basis of which I made GD Entry No. 381 dated 25/04/13 and forwarded the Ejahar to Bihali Police Station for registration of a case. On the previous day, accused Rajen Nayak was brought (to the OP) on the basis of GD Entry No. 370 dated 24/04/13. I made that GD Entry after getting a phone call from a person. Accused Rajen Nayak of Borkathiabari killed a person. On reaching the place of occurrence, I found Rajen Nayak and apprehended him. Inquest was held on the dead body. I seized a dao from the place of occurrence and examined the witnesses there itself. As it was evening, I sent the dead body for post-mortem examination the next day. The name of the deceased is Nathu Nayak. On 20/06/13, I collected his post-mortem report. After the Ejahar was lodged, I again went to the place of occurrence. I drew the sketch map of the place of occurrence the next day as a lot of people had gathered there on the day of the occurrence. I recorded the statement of the informant. After collecting the post-mortem report, I concluded the investigation and submitted the charge sheet against accused Rajen Nayak for commission of offence u/s 302 IPC. I seized a sharp dao from the place of occurrence through seizure list. Ext. 2 is the said seizure list and Ext. 2(1) is my signature. I have seen the seized dao in the court today. Material Exhibit 1 is the said dao which I have recognized. Ext. 3 is the charge sheet submitted by me and Ext. 3(1) is my signature.

At 5:10 p.m. on the day of the occurrence, I received the information of the incident and reached the P.O. at 5:25 p.m. About 50 persons had gathered there. I recorded the statements of all the witnesses on the same day at the same time. The place of occurrence is a field. I did not mention in the sketch map at what distance the residences are located from that place. Chintamani resides very close to that place and I took his statement. Since Dewan Nayak and Surjya Bora were not present, I could not record their statements. I recorded the statements of the people who live nearby. On the day of the occurrence itself, I found the dao lying near the dead body at the place of occurrence. None of the witnesses showed me the seized dao. I did not make a prayer to the court to record the confessional statement of the accused. I did not find any blood-stained clothe or article at the place of occurrence. Witness Bhaben Mali did not tell me that the accused had assaulted the deceased on his back. I recorded the statement of the informant the next day at the place of occurrence. At that time, he himself had come there. It is not a fact that I have not done the investigation properly. It is not a fact that the accused did not commit any incident with the seized dao. It is not a fact that I have submitted the charge sheet on false grounds.
